Unsolicited Testimonial

to Y. M. C. A.

"Unsolicited Testimonials" are too often obvious fakes, but the following extracts from a letter received by a Toronto lady bear the hall mark of the writer's honest impressions.

June 5th, 1918

Dear Miss—

Did you observe in the papers some little time ago a report of a conviction of the G. W. Veterans' Association, in which a resolution was unanimously (I) passed condemning the work and organization of the "Y" among the boys out here? To me it appears to be a grossly unfair charge against the Associations, entirely, at least from my experience, without foundation.

Such a charge, coming as it does from such a powerful and undoubtedly influential body, is bound to do serious harm to the "Y" and indirectly to other institutions of like nature, and thus to all of us out here. I cannot say how glad I am that this libel, it is nothing more or less, was uttered after the close of the recent highly successful campaign of the "Y" in Canada for increased financial support. If it had been a couple of months earlier the loss would have been insupportable and we would have been the sufferers.

I am looking at it purely from the self interest or selfish point of view because I fully realize how much we owe to the "Y." It is a perfect God send to us fellows. This is not merely my own opinion on the matter. The resolution was much discussed among my own comrades and the general consensus of opinion was the same. To us it had all the appearance of a well designed scheme by some malcontents to "hit" and hurt the work of the "Y."

The "Y" pushes its canteens and shelters closer up to the front here than any other institution I know of and the Canadian "Y" is no exception. It pushes as far up as the military authorities will permit and it is to be found in all sorts of unexpected places, in dugouts, in old cellars in ruined villages within a thousand yards of the enemy, and even in the support trenches. There "the cup that cheers" is dispensed with unstinted hand free to all comers at all hours of the day and night. And until recently, biscuits were liberally offered, not to mention the indispensable "smokes." Many a night, when coming out of the trenches, I have stopped at their shelters for a short rest and a warm drink of tea before pushing on over the other four to eight kilometres which usually lie between us and billets. Completely worn out and almost dead beat after a long four "in" during which we have possibly only had one hot drink a day, that hot tea and package of biscuits built up with a "whiff" which we have probably all been short of several days except as a Godsend, refreshing us as nothing else can. It is then we bless the "Y."

Almost the first thing one thinks of when back in the billets is the location of the nearest "Y." In the great majority of French villages where we are usually quartered there is absolutely nothing in the shape of recreation or amusement except the "Etablisments" and these at their best are questionable. The "Y" comes to the rescue once more. They build a hall or utilize the use of one from the military authorities, or put up one, and immediately arrange for visits of the amateur concert parties and cinema shows which are always free to everyone. Many a pleasant hour have I spent at such entertainments. That they are appreciated by us all goes without saying.

There are other important points that I might mention. The Canadian "Y" by its organization through its canteens is enabled to supply a wide assortment of Canadian home products such as canned fruits, biscuits, chewing and smoking tobacco and such like, which it is quite impossible for us to obtain otherwise. For that alone we are thankful to the "Y."

As to their spiritual activities, I need scarcely mention them. They are not forgotten. Neither are they forced upon us, and like everything else they are appreciated. As proof of that, one has only to attend any Sunday evening service held by the "Y." They are always well attended by the men, and spontaneous expressions of the singing and the general interest taken is easily discerned.

All this cannot be accomplished without expense, but I venture to think that we at least, are getting ample return from it, and the more there would be very sorry indeed to lose any of the benefits and facilities which the "Y." through the people at home, is enabled to afford us. And to come to the financial side of the institution, the cost of administration—I have just recently seen a certified auditors statement for the past year's turnover, and to me the operation expenses appeared exceedingly low.

Personally I cannot speak too highly of the "Y" work among us and practically all the men whom I have met in France have been of like opinion.

Valuable Grain

What is claimed to be the most valuable car of grain in the world, was received last week in the Winnipeg yards.

The car, which contained fax, came from Champion, Alberta, and contained 1,466 bushels, or 82,096 pounds of grain. Fax prices went up Tuesday. A total of $5,877.16 was realized on the car. The transaction was made through the United Grain Growers, Ltd.

America's Big Army

General Sauter in a speech in London last Wednesday said: "The gaps in the allied armies due to the defection of Russia have been made up with much sterner stuff from the United States. They are pouring across the Atlantic at the rate of more than a quarter of a million a month, and it would not be too much to say that before the American war would be as large as the Anglo-French combined."

When it is remembered that Germany, at the height of her power before the Americans came in, could not strike this paralyzing blow, what will be her position when America's new and incomparable army is fully on the scene? We can be confident as regards the end, be it far or near. It is as sure as the rising of the sun tomorrow.

NOTICE OF POSTPONEMENT

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, August 14th. All members are requested to attend.

The Way They Do It "Over There"

Strikes among the munition workers in Birmingham and Coventry took place this week. The strikers sent an appeal to the munition workers at Woolwich asking them to join with them. The reply they received should be carefully read by workers in Canada upon whom the soldiers at the front are depending for supplies. This is their answer:

"Strike now and you will earn the blessings of the Kaiser and his army of murderers. But you will earn the lasting condemnation of all those who are fighting and working in the allied nations to gain real freedom for civilization."

"We warn you seriously if you persist in striking that this government owe it to your brave brothers, who are fighting the Germans with their life's blood, while you are fighting with words and full bellies, that you are immediately put in front of the firing line, and that your leaders should be shot."

"Strike, and you may go to hell. Woolwich will remain at work, and earn the right to shake the hand of the soldier when he returns."

Norman Earl Lewis enjoyed exactly three seconds' liberty yesterday afternoon. He was released under the order of labours corps in accordance with instructions received by the military authorities, but immediately he appeared outside Victoria Park barracks he was ordered back for duty again by representatives of Regulars' Garrison's office. He did not raise any objection, but at once obeyed the order.

That the submarine menace is being destroyed is quite evident from the latest reports of losses incurred by them. The losses in the last three months have been lower than at any time since 1916.

FIGHTING MOOD OF AMERICANS

The American is generally credited with a very considerable degree of hard headedness and yet the American nation is at the same time considered a most emotional nation.

To which side of the national character is to ascribe the wave of Huns—in other terms, describes it—which is sweeping over the land of the Stars and Stripes? It is the emotional side of the American people which manifests itself in such grim ways as the lynching of sedition-carriers and in such small things as changing the name "sauerkraut" to "Liberty cabbage"? Or is it the hard-headed side which recognizes that war is a grim business and the more thoroughly we dislike the other fellow the more certain we are to train ourselves to the point where we can beat him to a pulp.

Whichever it is, the American people are becoming much more bitter against the German and all his ways than we have ever been on this side of the line; or, at any rate more demonstratively so. The tone of the American press bristles with grim hostility and all traces of German influence are being industriously sought for and rigorously rooted out. The business men of the United States are among the most bitter of all and it is certain that after the war it will be impossible for German business to make any headway in the effort that will of course be put forth to win back favor in the States. This is an evidence of hard headed common sense for the business men of the United States realize that, just as German methods before the war were inimical to all other interests but German interests the danger will be still greater after the war.

Uncle Sam is "getting his dander up," and his chin whiskers are fairly bristling with belligerency.

HUNS IN TIGHT CORNER

Massed German reserves are holding open the jaws of the true General Foch has sprung in the Alsace-Moselle region, in a desperate effort to stabilize their lines without the crushing of the forces withdrawing from the Chateau-Thierry and Marne salients. Official reports to the war department, however, show that the enemy has but a single railway line remaining in his hands over which to get his heavy material out of the pocket into which he has been forced by allied and American advances.

About 40 divisions have been identified there. The tremendous bagged pocket is about 20 miles broad at its base, between Soissons and Rheims, while its greatest depth is about 20 miles. Obviously, it is said, the enemy is badly cramped for space in which to handle his huge army. Should the final railway connection northward come under direct gun fire, it is regarded as possible by many officers that a veritable rout would result, as the massed forces of the enemy could not all be gotten away.

CATTLE GOING NORTH

That the plan of shipping cattle from the south to the north for pasture is being taken advantage of to a very great extent is seen from statistics procured at the Alberta stock yards. For the past ten days fully ten are a day from the south have passed through Calgary on their way to the fresh fields and pastures green of the north. At present there are 8,000 head of sheep in the yards owned by Mr. Conrad, of Montana. These sheep are leaving this morning for Millet, about 10 miles north of Wetaskiwin.

Locating the Hay

Some difficulty, it seems, has been experienced in locating a sufficient amount of hay and pasture in the north for the use of the many applicants in the south. The U.F.A. has for some time been working on this problem. All their heads in the north have been asked to furnish information in this regard and particulars as to the location of supplies are arriving daily.

At a meeting of the directors of the German Agricultural Society, held on Saturday last, it was decided, after discussing the matter fully, to postpone the fair which was announced to be held on August 8th and 9th. This action was taken owing to the dry weather, it being felt that there could be very few roots and vegetables and little, if any, grains and grasses to exhibit. However, if conditions warrant it, the fair will be held a little later on, say in the month of September.

Victory 10th No. 2 will be in full swing in about three months' time with a canvas beginning probably about the end of October or the beginning of November. It will aim at $100,000,000, and half billion is expected as the net result. Alberta will be in line with the Dominion-wide

EDITOR'S NOTES

Many will be pleased to hear of the coming revival meetings which commence on August 1st. The evangelist, Mr. Miller, has been conducting a very successful campaign in Norton, and over a hundred have united with the church as the result. Mr. Miller's appeal is to all classes for better lives. This he understands to mean not merely a public profession of one's intentions but honestly in business, and the neighbor spirit in every day dealings. These meetings are not for church goers, but they will probably be there, but they are primarily for those who think they can be just as good outside the church as in it. Speaking generally we know little enough of the higher and better things of life, and when an intelligent and educated man who has made a life study of these matters, comes to enlighten us, it is only ignorance on our part that would refuse to hear him. To get away from the dreary monotony of every day life and spend an hour listening to able speakers and singers would be the very best form of recreation. If your soul is so shrouded and weak that you have no desire for anything above the ordinary every day business routine, sympathy and great tolerance to spare you. Mr. Miller was recently in Claresholm and met a number of prominent men regarding his visit here. It was agreed, we understand, that no church was to have any special claim on him. The meetings are to be community meetings in which every angel or devil in the neighborhood will be welcomed. Either with the letter or somewhere between these extremes we can all doubtless find a place.

Yesterday Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, completed his fifteenth year of service with that institution. Starting his career in 1903 as a junior clerk in the Hamilton branch of the bank he worked his way up until eleven years ago he was appointed president.

A Nelson man openly stated his opinion that it made no difference whether Britain or Germany won the war. With excepted kindness the authorities have placed him in a position of quiet and solitude where he will have opportunity to think the matter over and revise his opinion.

Posers for the Pious

The special religious appeals going on in the town seem to have awakened a new interest in religious matters. The following questions have been submitted to us. Convinced of the earnestness of our questioner we print them. If one of our pastors would announce his intention of answering them from the pulpit we have no doubt that he would have an audience of interested listeners. Here they are:

1. Why does not God demonstrate his power and presence in the world war by some unmistakable method of intervention, and thus dispel all doubt as to his existence and love?
2. If I kill my child I am branded a murderer, why, if God kills my child do you say he is my friend?
3. Why are men who do not go to church called non-Christians? Are not many of the best living men outside of the church?
4. What is the difference between a Methodist or a Nazarene praying in the church or tent, and the hypocrites Christ spoke of in the Sermon on the Mount who loved to pray standing in the Synagogues or street corners?

Premier Stewart, together with the members of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, arrived in Canada on July 24th from their trip to England and France.

Hoover in commenting on the great increase of production in the United States, said that there was no need, for the next twelve months, for restrictions on the volume of foodstuffs shipped to Europe.

REPTILE BITES SNAKE KING AT LETHBRIDGE FAIR

There was considerable excitement in the midway, at the Lethbridge fair on Thursday night, when the rattlesnake king, who has as how tooth, was bitten in the hand by one of his largest rattlesnakes. There was only a dozen people in the tent when the incident occurred, and it was soon filled with a crowd of curious spectators.

The snake had only been one week in captivity. There was no serious result, as an antidote course was immediately applied.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. MacNiven, now of Edmonton, leave on Monday next for a trip to their old home in Ontario. Mr. MacNiven will be away for one month and Mrs. MacNiven for three months.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

One of the most difficult problems facing those in authority today is that of the "conscientious objector." There are things in which it is reasonably to be allowed that conscience has a part to play. If the traditions of British justice and fair play are to be preserved some consideration of the case of the conscientious objector to military service must be made.

"Conscience" is always connected with our idea of what is right. The first question therefore to be determined is "What is right?" The word "right" is connected with the Latin word "rectus" meaning that which is straight or conforms to rule. The idea of "right," therefore, implies some standard or rule of conduct. The question then is "What is the standard of conduct to which we should conform?" To this question there have been many answers given in the history of the world. As illustrated by Plato and Aristotle answered "the duties of citizenship." Stoicism answered "the practice of virtue." The Hebrew answered "the law of Moses." The Christian answered "the teaching of Jesus of Nazareth." To which of these standards of right are we to conform? The standard of right as set forth by Jesus of Nazareth would probably be considered by most Occidentals as being the highest standard of right the present world knows. It is then this standard of right by which the conduct should be guided. So far we are all in tolerable agreement. Our difficulties begin with the interpretation of this standard of right. The authorities for this standard are the writings of the apostles and one or two others. The difficulty of interpretation seems to be almost as old as the writings themselves. All through the history of the Church there have been smaller bodies breaking away from the parent body and differing from it on questions of doctrine or practice. It is noticeable that in the main the bodies of conscientious objectors came from the smaller bodies who perceived the play the part of "correctors" of Christian doctrine and practice. It has been so in the history of thought and is repeating itself in the history of today. Most of our conscientious objectors to compulsory military service are from these smaller religious bodies. The problem resolves itself into the question "To what standard of right shall the nation conform? Shall it be made to conform?" Probably according to our varying views we should like the interpretation of this or that school of thought. The situation, however, would be impossible. We are helped in this difficulty by the fact that there is what might be called a minimum standard of right that would be accepted by the majority. It would be right enough for some. It would be too right for others. This minimum standard of right might be described as the "common conscience." It reflects itself in the common law of the land. The common law then is the common or public conscience which is the standard of right or conduct to which all without distinction must conform. It is possible to argue that the common conscience, as reflected in the law of the land, is not competent to judge that the law needs educating to a higher level. In some matters this may be only too true. The history of the past has been that the laws were made by the few for the many. It could not be argued, however, that the Military Service Act was an Act passed by the few and imposed upon the many. It was the logical outcome of the mandate given to the Government at the last general election. That mandate expressed the will of the people as a whole. The law should be carried on with vigor, that the promise that Canada was in the war for freedom was not a mere promise but that it was meant to be fulfilled if the need arose. The thought of compulsory military service was in the air. The clear sighted people saw that if the light for freedom was to be maintained in Canada; that no 2000 miles of ocean would save them from the disastrous effects of such defeat. Crushing burdens in the way of huge war indemnities imposed upon the already devastated countries of Europe would be left to the untouched, unpolished, and undeveloped country of Canada. All this the clear-sighted people saw and gave their mandate accordingly. It could not be said, therefore, that the Government passed the Military Service Act and not the people. To argue in this way would be to repudiate the very principle of representation. The Government of Canada is not an autocracy imposing its will upon the people. It is a house of representatives elected by a free people. That house of representatives with a full knowledge of war conditions in Europe, given at least to some of its members, ratified the Military Service Act. It became part of the law of the land. As such, it was an expression of the public conscience and formed part of that standard of right which all should obey. The duty of the individual is clear. He should obey the law. In matters which concern the very life and existence of his nation the will of the individual must be subordinated to the will of the community. No other position is logically possible. The conscientious objector certainly has rights, but these rights never involve the loss of rights to others. Does not the conscientious objector see that if his theories were carried out we should all lose our freedom, even those of us who had no objection to fighting for it. The whole problem is the relation of the few to the many. There are, perhaps such things as the rights of minorities, but they are never such as to impede the very existence of the majority. In the conducting of the recruiting campaign the government has been very generous with the conscientious objector. The way has been made easy for him to join non-combatant sections of the army and so respect his scruples whilst at the same time urging that he should fulfill his duties to the community. It is doubtful whether the conscientious objector as a class sees that the very struggle in which we are engaged is to make unnecessary that very system which he professes to loathe. On the whole there is more likelihood of the general mass of the people being right on a question of this sort than there is of the individual view being right. In some questions such as that of science, of medicine, the many are compelled to bow to the superior, and specialized knowledge of the few, but in the case in point there is no particular need of specialized knowledge. Privileges which are enjoyed by all should be secured by all.

Another peace proposal is said to have been its way from Germany to the Allies. This time Germany asks to scrap all she has taken from Russia and Roumania, to get back her colonies in Africa and to let Britain of Gibraltar and the Suez Canal. Other matters are to be left to the peace conference. Such offers only produce a smile from the Allies.

NEW TYPE OF AIRPLANE

The London newspapers give prominence to a report of a new type of British airplane, which, having been tested at the front with the greatest success, is about to be employed there in large numbers. No technical details are given, but it is said that the new machine has enormous speed and climbing power. It is capable of carrying great weight in bombs, machine guns and other equipment and of obtaining a height of 20,000 feet in an astonishingly short time.

It is said the machine can cover long distances at a speed which leaves all but the fastest modern scout machines far behind and is thus able to cross enemy's lines and drop bombs and return or a fresh load within a time limit far less than any of the earlier airplanes.

The engines of the airplane are declared to be so completely reliable that risk of compulsory descent into the enemy's territory is eliminated. It is added that not one of these wonder machines has yet been downed, notwithstanding the utmost efforts of the Germans.

NOTICE TO FARMERS AND STOCKMEN :

CLARESHOLM, Alberta, July 24, 1918.

Dear Sir—The Alberta Provincial Department of Agriculture, through its representatives has just succeeded in getting the hay situation in somewhat more definite shape.

There is a reduction in freight rates, carrying stock north from below the line drawn from Lacombe to Kerrobert, and east of the line drawn from Cochrane to Lundbreck, to any place north of the said line, and the hauling of hay from any point north of the said line to any point south. The railway companies are satisfied to accept half rate. The Dominion Government has promised to pay the other half, consequently the hauling to and from will be practically free, except in the cases where the E.D. & B.C. line is used. As yet no arrangements have been completed with them, but if there is any charge against the shipper it will be a light one. These rates are open only to bona fide stockmen or men engaged by them to put up hay. The speculator cannot profit by them.

Large hay areas have been located along the southern shore of Lesser Slave Lake, and in the country adjacent to Athabasca Landing also some around Clyde, Cooking Lake, north of Lake Wabamun, Lac St. Anne, Lac La Biche, and other parts. We have some pasture areas east and west of Edmonton.

The Provincial Department has secured control of the hay on all Dominion lands. Bona fide stockmen can get permits to cut hay upon application to the Dominion Agents or Sub-Agents. The amount of hay allowed each individual will be according to the amount of stock he has. These permits must be sanctioned by the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Edmonton.

We would suggest that the stockmen and farmers organize themselves into groups for the purpose of locating hay and send a representative north to Edmonton, call at the Government buildings and see Mr. A. E. Meyer, who will give them full directions.

Haymaking outfits coming from south of the line previously mentioned will be hauled at half rates in this way; a full rate north will be charged with a free return.

In the matter of shipping stock from the south to the north it will be necessary to make an application to Mr. H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, Edmonton. An affidavit will have to be taken stating the number of stock owned and waiting for shipment, when a certificate will be issued authorizing the railway agents at the shipping point to accept the same for shipment north. All cattle shipped to a point northward in order to get free rates back before the first of October next, will have to return to the original point of shipment. All cattle going north must be dipped.

Kindly pass this information on to your friends and neighbors.

Yours very truly,

CECIL T. TAPP, Agricultural Agent.

A Meeting of the Farmers will be held at Claresholm on Saturday, July 27th, at 8 p.m.

War Notes

The giant White Star liner, Justicia, has been torpedoed and sunk after twenty-four hours fight. No passengers were lost and only ten of the crew were killed. The Justicia was formerly the Dutch steamer Stedman, which was taken over by the British government on the stocks of Belfast when she was nearing completion. She was a vessel of 32,291 tons gross.

Confidential advices are in the hands of the cabinet as to the reasons Sir Robert Gordon is remaining for a time in England. They cannot be made public except to say that Sir Robert and Premier Hughes, of Australia, and Gen. Smuts, of South Africa, are backing Lloyd George in a fight he is making for increased efficiency of the British Army of which the overseas forces form a most important part. Lloyd George has earnestly asked for their presence in England until his plan is completely formed.

The German crown prince has suddenly changed his plans for a strategic retreat from the Solomons-Rheims salient and has determined to fight it out there.

This decision, indicated by the stiffening enemy resources and the increasing reinforcements, was borne out by the German prisoners today who declared the withdrawal order was countermanded. They could offer no explanation, but military experts believe German politicians, fearing the international effect of a huge retirement forced the change in plans. It was priced at $1 million a 1/2 order new divisions into the pocket, drawing these reinforcements from as far north as the main British front. German losses in this region are now estimated at from 125,000 to 150,000 men, including 25,000 prisoners.

At Local Theatres

"THE OTHER MAN'S WIFE"

Miss Dorothy LaVerne, remembered for her clever impersonation of Peg in "Peg o' My Heart," which she has here about one year ago, is said to excel her former triumph in an entirely different character in the great play "The Other Man's Wife," which will appear at the Rex Theatre, next Monday evening, July 29th. A play of comedy, the double standard of morals and the divorce evil. Is the latter increasing or diminishing was the question asked a New York art critic, who claimed the phenomenal record of having participated in 51 divorce cases in a year. "I think," he answered, with an amused smile referring to his record, "that there is a slight increase." When asked his opinion for the cause of the increase he compounded his answer into two words, "Imaginative infidelity." He went on to state that if husbands and wives were not so anxious to find errors in one another's past lives, and listen to the whisperings of scandalous gossips, such cases as this would be eliminated. Taking, for instance, "The Other Man's Wife," a play of intensity that deals with the question in a most remarkable manner, where the author has woven a story in such a manner that the characters are led into all sorts of complications and seemingly compromising situations, which brings forth tears and laughter and gives the woman her justice in spite of man's obstinacy, and lands all in the blissful realm of happiness in conclusion. The play is beautifully costumed, and gorgeously mounted, under the able direction of the Lambert Producing Company. Tickets now on sale at the Drug Store. No movie.

"The Co-Respondent"

Jewel Productions Inc. are fast making a name for themselves and with such super-productions as they have so far offered to a discriminating public it is small wonder that in a brief period they are looked upon as among the most important distributing concerns in the entire film industry.

Their first feature was George Branson-Howard's "Come Through," which scored so tremendously at the Broadway theatre, New York, in the early summer and throughout the entire country. This was made by the Universal and purchased by Jewel and Herbert Rawlinson and Alice Lake appeared in the leading roles with a large company. Jewel's second offering brought to the screen a De Grasses feature "Pay Me," with beautiful Dorothy Phillips in the lead. A western drama this big, primitive, intense. It too scored very decidedly, as did the elaborate six-act super production "Sirens of the Sea" which Director Allen Holubar made, with Louise Lovely, Carmel Myers and Jack Muhlall taking the leads with very number of charming normal and dancers, who performed some very unusual swimming and diving numbers. Then comes the Thrasher picture masterpiece "The Man With a Country," with Florence La Badie and H. E. Herbert playing the exciting leading roles.

Now comes the "Co-Respondent," the current feature at the Rex Theatre on Tuesday, July 30 (one night only), with beautiful Elaine Hammerstein, granddaughter of Oscar Hammerstein, playing the title role. This is one of the best pictures ever projected, and has attracted the most enthusiastic attention throughout the country. The sixth Jewel offering will be that Lois Weber masterpiece "The Price of a Good Time," from "The Whim" by Marion Orth, which appeared in Broadway stories, and in which Mildred Harris who played so successfully in the support of the late Sir Herbert Beerhlim, plays the lead.

Fire! Fire!

All prospective campers are most urgently requested to co-operate with us in protecting the forests from fire. A great many people do not realize how easily a fire may get started. The following fumus and rules should always be observed:

1. Select the largest and most open spot available for your camp-fire, and clear it as far as practicable of all combustible material.
2. Never have camp even for a few minutes without putting out your fire completely.
3. Never drop lighted matches or tobacco in the woods.
4. Should fire occur, do your utmost to put it out and do not delay to notify the nearest forest ranger or ranger.

Thanking you for publishing this letter, I remain, Your obedient servant, R. M. Brown, Forest Supervisor, Crownpoint Forest Reserve

Farmers are Stopping the Profit-Eating Leaks This Year

Comparatively few farmers fall or lose heavily because of misfortune such as fire, wind or drought. The majority of failures and losses are from combined little leaks, and it is the many little leaks that are being studied and stopped.

HERE ARE SOME OF THEM—Feeding Wastes. Disease from Unsanitary Buildings. Unprotected Machinery. There are others but here are enough to kill the profits on any farm.

THE REMEDY—Concrete Granary Foundations and Floors. Concrete Barn and Hog House Floors. A Machine Shed. None of them are expensive and each will quickly pay for itself. Call and let us give you prices.
